INDEX TO CREEKS AND TRIBUTARIES

SERIES 10 MINING RECORDERS RECORDS

RECORD BOOKS FOR PLACER MINING CLAIMS

1896-1969

Whitehorse

October 23, 1989

DIAND - YUKON REGION, LIBRARY

The Index to Creeks and tributaries is designed to guide researchers through the two hundred and fifteen creek books that constitute part of the Yukon Archives Series 10 Mining Recorders records. The index provides an alphabetical listing of creeks and tributaries on which placer claims were registered. These span a time period from 1896 to the 1950's, although there are a few entries up to 1969 for particular creeks. The index links each creek or tributary to its main creek or river. The location, outside dates of claim information and the Yukon Archives volume number for the book or books relating to each tributary are also provided.

The duties of the Mining Recorder included responsibility for registering all mining claims in the Yukon. The creek books served as register, recording all transactions involving placer mining claims in the Territory. These registers were open to the public and were constantly updated by Mining Recorders office staff. So great was the demand for the original creek books, especially for the Klondike region, that many were worn out. From 1908 to 1910 a copying program was carried out. The transcribed registers along with the original books that were not recopied are available for research purposes at the Yukon Archives.

The creek books were arranged for microfilming in the early 1970's and they were assigned consecutive numbers at that time. These numbers now serve as the Yukon Archives reference numbers. The books are arranged internally by claim number. The discovery claim is usually found in the middle of the book with claims above discovery in numeric order on one side and the claims below discovery arranged similarly on the other side. In cases where the creeks were long or many transactions were recorded additional books were needed. Also separate books were required for the bench and hill claims.

The first one hundred and seventy creek books record claim data for placer creeks in the Klondike gold fields. The remaining forty-five books deal with various regions including; Whitehorse District, Mayo, McQuesten, Kaskawulsh, Asek, Watson Lake and other mining districts. It should be noted that the latter are not complete listings, additional information is available at the appropriate Mining Recorders Office.

The structure of the index is as follows:

TRIBUTARY

The first column of five alphabetically lists the tributaries recorded in the original Creek Books;

MAIN CREEK

The second column lists the main creek or river which corresponds to the tributary in the first column;

DESCRIPTION

The third column provides a brief description, when available, of information regarding each creek book. This may consist of only a brief reference to location of the particular tributary. It is advised that researchers consult the original creek book, since the index provides only a brief summary of the information available.

DATES

The fourth column provides the dates which the particular creek book covers. While these dates may span only a few years, they may also span very large periods.

VOLUME

The fifth column provides the Yukon Archives' volume number of the specific creek book required. This number is used along with the Series 10 reference to request the item at the Yukon Archives.

Include this information along with your name and the date on request slip.

NOTE

For more detailed information about the regulations governing placer mining in the Yukon see the Introduction in YRG 1 Series 10 Mining Recorder's Records (Placer).

Funding for this project was provided by the Yukon Council of Archives and Challenge '89.
