* Perhaps this is not this report — Nov 5 Klondike is not 80 miles long!...

* Adney 43? ~ 75 miles from Dawson
If it was N. Klondike it would be in the Blackstone area.
If it was S. Klondike it would be Davidson Creek area. Assume it was S. Klondike as he doesn't mention going through the N. Fork Pass — would be lots of snow. — Also in Nugget newspaper it reports Ross Creek (on S. Klondike) as the center of the hunting ground.)

42 Bill Fuller March 21, 1958 93 caribou (mixed groups) Helicopter survey. 75 miles total

43 Tappan Adney 1902:631 "We took 5 weeks to travel 45 miles from Dawson, and in that time we got 48 moose. No tracks of caribou were seen. The village continued in 30 miles further toward the foothills of the Rockies, and there found the caribou and killed 65, the meat of which was dried and, with the skins of the moose and deer, packed to Dawson." (In this area and above into end of 1897 2 or 3 small parties of whitemen reported 10 or 20 thousand caribou.) Clear in Klondike Nugget Apr 4, 1901 Ross Creek is the center of the hunting ground." — even though the season had been closed for two months, large quantities of caribou were being killed."

44 Klondike Nugget Dec 7 1901 "A couple of months ago [illegible] crossed the head of the Klondike in the direction of the Stewart, but as it was before the open season began they were not molested." "Old hunters who saw their tracks estimated there must have been 10,000 in the band."

45 Dawson Daily News Dec 24 1903
"Sixty tons of game are said to have been killed up the Klondike River for Dawson market. The greater number of caribou killed are 150 miles up the Klondike River" "the greater number were killed by a party of hunters who ran into a bunch of hundreds if not thousands of caribou and so increased that the hunters were obliged to shoot them down as rapidly as they could until all ammunition was exhausted."
